Finally, keep in mind that unemployment benefits are taxable, so it's generally wise to choose to have taxes withheld from each payment when you first open your claim. Step 5: Collect Your Unemployment Benefits Most claims are processed within two to three calendar weeks or 10 business days, although delays could occur during times of high claim volumes. In most cases, you will file a claim with the state where you most recently worked, but if you recently relocated from another state, that may not be the case. Moreover, if you willingly quit your job, are an independent contractor or otherwise self-employed, or can't go back to work for health or other reasons, you might not qualify. In some cases, people who were fired, suspended or asked to take a leave of absence don't qualify for unemployment. Photo Courtesy: SDI Productions/E+/Getty Images When you file your claim, you will be asked for some personal information, including your name, address(es), social security number (SSN), last 18 months of employment history, a record of wages earned and the reason and dates for your employment termination. Set up email notifications, if possible, and watch closely for any messages requesting additional information. If you're using your Chromebook, Android phone, or desktop, these will make finding files easier since you'll be able to filter the people involved with the files themselves. Then click Google Docs, Google Sheets, or Google Slides depending on what you need. Upgrade to Google One for More Space The free version of Google Drive comes with 15 GB of storage space that is shared both across devices and with Google Photos and Gmail. With it, you can save and share text documents, images, videos and more with users of your choosing. There is no change to this operator, but you can use it to return the results you previously used the "from:" operator. The changes are minor, but could make finding files significantly easier. Photo Courtesy: Justin Sullivan/Getty Images Google Drive is a free file storage and sharing service that uses the power of the cloud to keep all of your documents accessible wherever you go. If you have any difficulty locating your local center, contact your state unemployment agency for assistance. (Exceptions are currently in place to qualify independent contractors and the self-employed, but those rules expire at the end of 2020.) Photo Courtesy: Stefan Wermuth/Bloomberg/Getty Images Each state has different compliance requirements with respect to minimum wages and working hours, so we recommend consulting your state's unemployment agency for details. If you want to make sure your claim isn't delayed, be sure to complete all the sections fully and accurately. While you may be breathing an initial sigh of relief once your initial claim is processed, be sure to maintain your eligibility status by continuing your job search as directed. Step 6: File Your Weekly Payment Request and Keep Up the Job Search Once you start receiving unemployment benefits, you have to file weekly or biweekly (varies by state) payment requests online to be paid — no exceptions. You have the same 15 gigabyte storage limit on the app as you do when accessing Google Drive through a browser on your computer. These types of requests are typically very time sensitive. Photo Courtesy: Justin Sullivan/Getty Images In some cases, an unemployment official will interview you to clarify and verify details regarding your case and your identity. These steps may take place as you're filing your application, or they could be the last steps in determining your eligibility. Nearly all unemployment agencies accept claims online, especially in light of the COVID-19 pandemic. The easiest way to make more space for yourself is simply to delete content that you no longer need, but for a monthly fee, you can expand your overall storage limit. MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET Several states conduct telephone interviews before the final ruling to help prevent potential unemployment insurance fraud. If you do have an account, a password reset message will be sent to the email address in question. According to Google, the intention here is to make the operators behave more consistently with user expectations. To qualify for unemployment, an individual who lost their job must be eligible for work, able to work and actively seeking employment. Without a doubt, the ongoing pandemic throws a bit of a wrench into the process of actively seeking work, so that component may vary from state to state and could change at any time. Photo Courtesy: S3studio/Getty Images To create a Google account, visit Google's account creation page. More expensive plans also come with extra features, such as cash back in the Google Store and more. The base plan costs $1.99 a month or $19.99 if you decide to pay annually upfront. Although this rule may vary by state at times due to special circumstances (like a global pandemic), the general rule of thumb is that you're expected to pursue work leads every week and report your work search efforts in your weekly claim. Do you have COVID-19-specific questions about unemployment benefits and stimulus checks? Previously, it would have returned all files that the email address had permissions to view, comment, or edit. "shared with:" is a new search operator which will return files that the specified email address owns or has permission to view, comment, or edit. "owner:" returns files owned by the specified email address. The online process isn't just helpful for pandemic safety reasons. If you fail to answer the questions correctly — or don't consent to this process — you will most likely be asked to provide the agency with documents that verify your identity. Step 4: File Your Claim Once you confirm your eligibility, it's time to file your claim. Since those early days of chaos, most states have adapted and made improvements to handle all the claims. It depends on the reason you were fired, and the rules vary by state. Tilbakemelding om tilgjengelighet DiskDet ligger ingen filer i denne mappen. Logg på for å legge til filer i denne mappen. Google Drive Icon (Image credit: Harish Jonnalagadda / Android Central) In March of 2021, Google updated the search box in Google Drive to change some operators you can use to search for files. Texas, for example, waived their work search requirement for many months but reinstated it on November 1. From workplaces to individual households, Google Drive is increasingly being used everywhere you can imagine. Google Drive on Computers and Smartphones If you want to access your Google Drive on a computer, open your preferred web browser and navigate to Google's homepage. Depending on the state you reside in, you will be eligible to apply for unemployment benefits online, in person, on the phone or by mailing in a claim form. You might have created an account without realizing it if you've signed up for any Google products, such as Docs, Gmail, Youtube, Google Play or other apps and websites. During this interview, you will be asked specific questions about your employment background and other information mentioned in your claim. Virtual systems also reduce errors and speed up the claim process. You can also upload existing Word, Excel or PowerPoint documents into Google Drive, where they'll be converted into the corresponding kinds of docs. Photo Courtesy: ullstein bild Dtl./Getty Images To create one of these new files, click on the "+New" button on the upper left-hand side of the Google Drive interface. Photo Courtesy: S3studio/Getty Images You can also access Google Drive via Android or iOS smartphone or tablet by downloading the free Google Drive app from Google Play or a similar app store. What's more, it's easy to set up and access. The state agency will provide guidance on that as well as any other issues that could impact your claim. Step 2: Determine Your Eligibility As stated earlier, you need to meet certain criteria in order to be eligible for unemployment benefits. Creating and Uploading Files Not only can Google Drive be used to store and retrieve existing files, but it can also be used as a jumping-off place to create new work. You can use these search terms to filter out to whom a file has been shared, who owns it, who you got it from, and who you sent it to. To use the operators, enter them in the Search box at the top of Google Drive, as demonstrated below. Source: Google (Image credit: Source: Google) Some of these operators existed before, but their function has slightly changed. Photo Courtesy: JGI/Tom Grill/Getty Images After you've lost your job, contact your state unemployment agency as soon as possible. All end-users should have these changes in effect right now; there's no need for anyone to do anything. If you lost your job due to the pandemic or other reasons, here are the steps to take next to file an unemployment claim online. Step 1: Contact Your State Unemployment Agency Whether you were laid off because of the pandemic or lost your job due to other unforeseen circumstances, filing for unemployment benefits is one way to cover a portion of your monthly bills while you're between jobs. You may even have an account already without realizing it. Photo Courtesy: Withthaya Prasongsin/Moment/Getty Images Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, unemployment rates rose sharply in the United States in the spring of 2020. Photo Courtesy: S3studio/Getty Images By becoming a Google One member, you gain access to extra storage — anywhere from a new limit of 100 gigabytes to 2 terabytes as well as additional customer support, the ability to invite up to five other people to gain personal storage on your plan and the ability to sync and back up phones and other devices. Photo Courtesy: skaman306/Moment/Getty Images Once your claim has been processed, you will need to make an appointment at your nearest American Job Center for your state or set up an account online. If you fail to file your weekly claim, your benefits may be delayed or stopped altogether. MORE FROM ASKMONEY.COM Something went wrong. In the upper right-hand corner, click the small square icon made up of nine smaller squares; this is the Google Apps button. If the email wasn't used, a message will pop up informing you of that with a link to create an account. Our peers over at Ask.com have the answers. If you're looking to access your Google Drive account, getting started is quick and simple. Even worse, months later, many jobless people were still desperately trying to cut through all the red tape and the massive volume of people to file their own unemployment claims. Photo Courtesy: svetikd/E+/Getty Images Finally, it's important to keep in mind that unemployment benefits are usually contingent upon a recipient doing their part to actively look for a new job. Google Docs can be used for word processing, Google Sheets for Excel-style spreadsheets and Google Slides for presentations. If you're wondering how to file a claim after all the changes, we can help you figure it out. The web browser will open Google Drive, where you can upload, access and share your files. Simply log in with your Google account, and you can access all of your files from your mobile device. Verify your email address by clicking the link in the confirmation message sent to your email immediately after filling out the form, and add a recovery email address and phone number if desired. Long story short, where you're currently residing might not be the state that will pay you unemployment benefits if you haven't lived there long. If you're unsure if you have one, visit the Google Accounts password change page and enter any email address(es) you may have used to create an account. By the end of April, a staggering 30 million Americans had filed for unemployment benefits. These state-run agencies give people access to job listings and career training resources, and registration is mandatory to receive your unemployment insurance benefits. Previously, it would have returned files owned by that email address. "to:" will now return files you have shared with the specified email address. You'll be required to answer some questions about any work you completed each week as well as any other income you received. The changes to the operators are as follows: "from:" will now return files shared with you by the specified email address. You're ready to begin using Google Drive and can now sign into your account on most Google sites by selecting the sign-in option in the top-right corner of the screen. Wait a moment and try again. Creating a Google Account If you already have a Google account, you can skip this step. When a drop-down menu of large icons appears, click on Drive. Enter in your information following the prompts, including a valid email address (Gmail or otherwise). They switched them on the server-side. Additionally, if your application is denied for any reason, you have the right to file an appeal to try to overturn the denial. Step 3: Verify Your Identity During the initial application process, each state's unemployment division will ask you to verify and authenticate your identity.
